CLARK-WHELAN NUPTIALS.

Ceremony Performed in Holy Cross Catholic Church.
The marriage of Miss Ella T. Clark, daughter of Mrs. Miles Clark, of Luzerne street, to M. F. Whelan, of Wilkes-Barre, occurred yesterday at 12:30 o'clock. Owing to the illness of the bride's mother, it was a quiet affair. The ceremony was performed at the Holy Cross church by Rev. William O'Donnell.
The bride's sister, Miss Jennie T. Clark, attended her, and James Baer, of Wilkes-Barre, acted as groomsmen. Both ladies were tastefully costumed and carried roses. The wedding march was played by Miss Anna Bell, church organist.
After the ceremony had been performed, Mr. and Mrs. Whelan received a few of their friends in the parlors of the St. Charles and then left on an afternoon train for Buffalo. Upon their return from their wedding trip they will reside at Wilkes-Barre.
Mrs. Whelan is a sister of Select Councilman M. E. Clark, of the Sixth ward, and is well and favorably known. Mr. Whelan has a large number of friends in this city. He is an ex-county detective of Luzerne county and is at present connected with the National Bottling works.

WALSH'S DARING DEED.

He Stopped Runaway Horses on Wyoming Avenue.

A team of horses attached to a wagon owned by Scheuer Brothers, the South Side bakers, took fright on Wyoming avenue yesterday afternoon and dashed down toward Lackawanna.
In front of Dunn's hat store, James Walsh, an employe of the Trolley and Water company, made a daring and successful attempt to stop the horse. He dashed out in the roadway before them, grasped the bridle and despite the kicking and plunging of the animals, held on until he brought them to a standstill in front of Carroll's hotel on Lackawanna avenue.
His arms were badly wrenched but otherwise he was uninjured. But for Walsh's heroic act serious consequences might have followed in the wake of the horses as the streets were crowded at the time. The horses were somewhat out and bruised but the wagon was uninjured.

TINGLEY AND TIFFANY FAMILIES.

They Held a Reunion at Harford, Susquehanna County, Yesterday.

At Harford, Susquehanna county, yesterday took place the seventeenth annual reunion of the Tingley and Tiffany families which were the first to settle in that part of Pennsylvania. The reunion was held in a log cabin, erected on the site of the homestead of one of the first Tingleys, who settled in Harford when the country thereabouts was a wilderness. There were over two hundred of the near families of both present. A few of those were: Professor Jeremiah Tingley, Ph. D., of Allegheny, Pa.; Ford Tingley, of Washington, N. J.; P. J. Tingley, and D. N. Tingley, of New York; Robert, of Binghamton, N. Y.; J. J. Tingley, of Brookdale, Pa.; Editor Vall, of the New Milford Advertiser; J. S. Barnes, of Susquehanna; Mr. and Mrs.

HOGAN TIRED OF IT.

Wants the Other Lackawanna Township Auditors to Abandon the Investigation Now in Progress.

The Lackawanna township auditors who are investigating the school board, re-convened yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at Monongahela hall. The first witness called was ex-Director P. J. Foley, who has been on the stand at most of the meetings. He began a general review of his dealings with the board, when Attorney Watson, who is conducting the examination of the auditors, asked Foley if he knew the market price of the heater which the school board, while he occupied a seat there, sold to Michael Gibbons for $25. Foley said, but admitted that Gibbons spoke to him about the heater and he took the question up before the board which accepted the $25 offered by Gibbons. In the opinion of the majority of the board that was a good price for the heater as it was being eaten up by rust in the cellar of No. 1 building and was considered a fit subject for a junk shop.

Mr. Watson said the heater cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $120, yet the members of the board, without even consulting a teacher, decided to the worth of the heater with Gibbons to let him have it for the price of a stove.

Peter Mullin was put on the stand and said the accusation that he attempted to bribe some members of the board to get his son a position as teacher was an unmitigated falsehood. Mullin said Foley was not on the board when $2,300 was paid for coal.

The committee whiled away time discussing the investigation and John P. Kelly made a plea for the school board to the investigation. He contended it was nothing more than a persecution of the board, as it was developing into a fizzle.

Michael Hogan, auditor, informed his colleagues that he cannot afford to lose time attending the sessions and he objected to having another session as he could not see anything that would warrant continuing the investigation.

This aroused the ire of Auditor Manning, who told the assembly that he would not consent to the abandonment of the investigation. After some wrangling the board decided to have another meeting next Monday afternoon which, from present indications, will wind the matter up.

Before the meeting, the citizens will enter a vigorous protest if the investigation is abandoned at this point.
